Dear Mr. Heitler,

As I had feared might happen, some official responsibilities have arisen which will force me to remain in Washington this coming weekend. Thus, it looks as if my visit to the Hall will have to be on the 21st. I have that date firmly blocked on the calendar and will do everything possible to let nothing interfere with it.

I regret these changes of date, but my time, as you recognize, is not always my own. In any event, I look forward to seeing all of you on the 21st at about 6:30 p.m. and hope we will have a lively discussion that will provide some respite or relief from the rigors of examination time.

Sincerely,

George A. Carver, Jr.
